

Commander W. H. Stewart, Commander Thomas T. Munford and other officers of the Grand Camp of Confederate Veterans of Virginia; General Stith Bolling and other officers of the United Confederate Veterans; Hon. Harry St. George Tucker, president of the Jamestown Exposition; Hon. Alvah H. Martin, director-general of the Jamestown Exposition; Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Ellison; Admiral P. F. Harrington, United States Navy; Captain Himes, Captain Robert E. Lee, of White House, and others.

Rebel Yell Answers Cannon.
The opening exercises in the Auditorium were punctuated with the reverberations of cannon, the Third Artillery holding a drill in the grounds, and at each burst of firing there was a yell from the throats of the veterans.

After the opening prayer by Chaplain Hyde, and music from the Confederate choir and the Mexican National Band, both of whom were wildly cheered, President H. St. George Tucker, of the Jamestown Exposition, welcomed the veterans, saying that his duties for the past six months had caused him to address many gatherings of many kinds, all gathered to glorify some success in life.

"What does this meeting mean?" he asked. "A body of men are here assembled to celebrate a 'lost cause.' Forty years after they said the cause was lost we are glad to gather here and talk over the good times we have had. From this platform many distinguished men have been elected. Three weeks since Hon. Sam McCall, a Republican Congressman from Massachusetts, and a noble gentleman, said here: 'Let me say as a Massachusetts man that the principle for which you fought is the greatest principle ever fronting the American people to-day.'"

Tribute to Pitts Lee.
President Tucker paid a graceful tribute to the genius, inspiration, courage and pluck of his predecessor in office, General Fitzhugh Lee, whose arduous work, he said, made the exposition possible.

Mr. Tucker told of his trip abroad and his interviews with celebrated people, and their estimates of the South's cause and her heroes. It was Lord Roberts, himself the greatest living military man, who said without hesitation that Stonewall Jackson was the greatest general of modern times. (Applause.)

Mr. Tucker continued: "I am glad you have come down here. I want you to understand that the Federal Government has done great things for you. The best friend this exposition or any other enterprise ever had was Theodore Roosevelt. (Prolonged cheers.) "I want the old Confederates to know that there is no better place for them to meet than right here at Jamestown. Virginia has exalted manhood in the mention of Robert Lee the whole world bows its head."

Reply of Colonel Stewart.
Colonel William H. Stewart, of Portsmouth, Virginia, commander of the Confederate Veterans of Virginia, was introduced, and spoke in reply to Mr. Tucker's address. He said in part:

"It has long been the custom of the Confederate Veterans to reunite once every year for a communion of love."

"This twentieth anniversary of their Grand Camp has fallen on a day of the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the first permanent white settlement in Virginia; and we thank you, Mr. President and your associates, for giving us the opportunity of holding this panorama of beauty, unrivaled in the march of ages."

"Nature and science have met here to present a marvel of splendor as delightful to the eye as the rising sun from yonder ocean."

"You show us here the little mustard seed which has grown and spread until it has reached the summit of glory in its achievements for human liberty. You show us the few brave settlers who fought treacherous savages, and before the advancing time for a new colony on the James. You show us the dauntless men who stood with Nathaniel Bacon, Jr., enacting 'wholesome laws, breathing the spirit of liberty. You carry us through the days which tried the souls of men and made Washington the Father of his country. You illustrate the return of peace after the bloodiest and costliest war of a century between the sections."

"Here let me say that your predecessor and our comrade, Fitzhugh Lee, was one of the strongest arches in the bridge of peace over the bloody chasm of that war. You show us the agriculture, arts, mechanics, mines and manufactures, which within two score years have made us the richest of the globe. It is most delightful to welcome these triumphs of peace. Let us have peace, and let us have peace."

"Some men are here who stacked their arms in surrender, and they will never forget the tender consideration of the commander-in-chief of the Union armies. An our star of hope went down behind the blackest cloud that ever bedimmed human vision, when a battery commenced to salute their victory, he promptly ordered the guns to cease firing, and instead of salutation he offered bread to the hungry captives."

"They remember how his manhood stood for peace."

"Mr. President, we are not all strangers."

"Berry's for Clothes."

WE'RE GOING TO HAVE ALL RICHMOND WEARING FANCY WAISTCOATS!

The prominent feature in dress this Fall for particular men is the special waistcoat. Here are original designs that cannot be found at every store, and here's every design that can be seen at any store. $2.50 to $12.50.

Grofit and Knapp Derbies, $3.
Knapp-Felt Derbies, $4.
Dunlap and Heath Derbies, $5.
Soft Hats from $1.30 up.

O.H. Berry & Co.
MEN'S BOYS' SUITMAKERS

to this beautiful site, overlooking the 'theater of the world' and the mother of wars. The footprints of war, where some of us stood, are not all washed out from its records. George Washington, the first President, standing yonder by the deep water terminus of the great Virginia railroad, was a barrier against the guns of the invaders' ships in 1861-62. There the cannon shot from the 'Monticello' buried the first soldier in Virginia's sand, but he was promptly exhumed, stood to his guns for four years, and stands here a man of peace to enjoy the pleasures of this hour. The battle of the Point, on the 18th of May, 1861, was the first and only battle of Virginia after she had seceded from the Union and before she entered into an alliance with the Confederate States; the battle where neither the State nor the Confederacy had a flag to display, but Georgia, the empire State of the South, which had sent her 'City Light Guard' to aid Virginia, gave her flag to float in triumph over the unfinished earthworks.

Tree Soldiers, All.

"The United States ship 'Monticello' made the attack, and gallant soldiers of Norfolk and Georgia drove her off. One Virginia cavalryman on picket was wounded on the leg by the fragment of a shell, the first blood shed in battle on the soil of the Old Dominion in that great war between the South and the North. Here are some of the veterans who witnessed the great marine fight on the 8th and 9th of March, 1862; saw the 'Cumberland' go down with flag flying and guns firing; and the brave seamen who saved the 'Virginia' whelp the 'Monitor' here are some of the gallant crew who stood to the guns on the ironclad 'Virginia,' which revolutionized naval warfare."

"Here are soldiers who know 'Stonewall Jackson's' way. Mr. President, Massachusetts, Virginia, Kentucky participants are here to thank you for your generous welcome here are soldiers who went into the battle of the Wilderness, the fortune of the Robert E. Lee to Appomattox, never out of range of mine or cannon shot all through the wonderful campaign. There are veterans here who fought at Spotsylvania. One wounded in the leg was rolled off the field by a comrade in a wheelbarrow. Passing the artillery park, General Pendleton said: 'Lieutenant, what are you doing there?' 'I am passing in review, general,' replied the Lieutenant. 'You are evidently not mortally hurt,' said the old warrior. And so it was, for he is here to-day."

"There are men here who charged Malvern Hill; here are men who fought at Cold Harbor; stood in the lines of the memorable siege of Petersburg, and charged on the 'Crater.'"

"Some men are here who stacked their arms in surrender, and they will never forget the tender consideration of the commander-in-chief of the Union armies. An our star of hope went down behind the blackest cloud that ever bedimmed human vision, when a battery commenced to salute their victory, he promptly ordered the guns to cease firing, and instead of salutation he offered bread to the hungry captives."

"They remember how his manhood stood for peace."

"Mr. President, we are not all strangers."

Grant's Son to Confederates

GENERAL FREDERICK D. GRANT, son of General U. S. Grant, made a speech to the Confederate veterans at the Jamestown Exposition yesterday which aroused great enthusiasm. He wore a Confederate badge over his blue uniform and said he was proud of it.

for paroled prisoners when the viciousness of revenge demanded violation of his pledges on that fateful battlefield. Every veteran who remembers with gratitude the graciousness, tenderness and goodness of General Grant, the holder of the Union of the Dreadnaught type, 20,000 tons each, at the approaching session. The President was much disappointed that Congress provided for only one battleship of this class at the last session. It is likely he will begin early this year making a fight for at least three. He will probably get them.

Secretary Metcalf completed to-day his estimates of appropriations for the maintenance of the department for the next fiscal year.

He asks Congress to appropriate $136,000,000 for this purpose. He asked for an appropriation of $115,000,000 last year, and got $122,000,000.

The increase of $24,000,000 is due to provisions for the increase of the salaries of many clerks, and the appointment of many additional ones, it being asserted that the present force in many of the bureaus is inadequate to discharge the business. Nevertheless, and notwithstanding the idea of paying out $126,000,000 for the support of the Navy Department is going to make Congress jump.

CHAMPIONS PICK EMBLEM.

Gold Watch Charm With a Cub Holding Diamond. The Chicago National League club, winners of the world's championship in the recently played series with the Detroit Tigers, have decided on the style of emblem to commemorate the victory. President Murphy has taken a vote of all the men on the team and finds that all of them favor a design similar to the one given them two years ago for winning the championship of Chicago.

That medal was a watch charm, made of solid gold, with a raised surface on one side to represent half of a baseball and on the reverse side a diamond. The design on the surface was a big Y—the Chicago monogram. In the center of the Y is a big diamond, to represent the field of battle, and around the sides are baseball bats, the implements with which victory was won. The Cubs think the medal is the neatest design they have seen, and their idea is to have the same kind made this year, only a little larger, to be attached to the bottom of the other charm by a gold link.

The diamond is a little larger, and instead of the Chicago Y there will be a large cub holding the diamond between his teeth. On the reverse side of the medal will be placed the lettering, giving the name of the holder and date of winning the world's championship. There is no enamel work on the medal and no sharp corners to catch on clothing.

Several Other Speeches.
Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Ellison welcomed the veterans on the part of Governor Swanson, who was unavoidably detained.

Lieutenant-Governor Ellison's tribute to the Confederate soldiers who went home from the war and took up life in the South, and the veterans who brought the white-headed men cheering to their feet.

Admiral Harrington, United States Navy, made the closing address, saying: "When I came to this community four years since, I was captured by the friendly South, and I have since then have put Confederate colors on me and I wear the badge proudly over my navy blue. It signifies the loyalty and devotion of the Confederate soldiers, qualities which have never been equalled in war or in peace. Had I been born in England, I should undoubtedly have joined the Grimes Battery. (Cheers.)"

General Grant's allowing the Confederate soldiers to wear the badge is a noble home with them was a brave man's tribute to a noble foe."

The mention of Grant brought cheers equal to those accorded Roosevelt, the best of the day.

When Lee advised his arms and go home, General Grant," he continued, performed the noblest act of a noble life. (Cheers.) In the last speech he made down in Mississippi, not long before Jeff. Davis died, he advised the people to surrender, and to lay down the building up of this nation of ours. (Cheers.)

The battles of the navy when men in gray and men in blue lay down their lives are remembered here now, and will be remembered hereafter as the glorious deeds of the American people.

After resolutions of thanks, music, cheers and yells, the Grand Camp adjourned in its twentieth annual session in a blaze of glory. W. B. S.

NEW CURRENCY LAW

Congress Will Attempt to Pass One as Result of Panic.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.

It is certain that a new currency law will be one of the means which will be attempted by Congress as a result of the panic in New York this week. Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, who is in this city to-day, declared that a bill reforming the currency would be introduced at the coming session.

When asked whether the measure would have the support of the President, Mr. Elkins was non-committal. He left the impression that the administration would back the bill, but Elkins did not and would not say that he himself would introduce the bill.

He indicated that the bill would provide for a more elastic currency. The business of the country has increased in volume with far greater rapidity than the money.

The business has increased about 30 per cent. and the money about 5 per cent., he said. "Credit or confidence has been shaken to a certain extent, and the gap is open."

Senator Elkins, who is one of the wealthiest men of America, said he believed the worst of the New York squaw was over. He does not believe the President is to blame for the panic. It would have come later, even had not the President turned on the light.

WANTS THREE BIG SHIPS

Thought the President Will Ask Congress to Provide Them.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.

It is believed President Roosevelt will ask Congress to provide for the construction of three battleships of the Dreadnaught type, 20,000 tons each, at the approaching session. The President was much disappointed that Congress provided for only one battleship of this class at the last session. It is likely he will begin early this year making a fight for at least three. He will probably get them.

Secretary Metcalf completed to-day his estimates of appropriations for the maintenance of the department for the next fiscal year.

He asks Congress to appropriate $136,000,000 for this purpose. He asked for an appropriation of $115,000,000 last year, and got $122,000,000.

The increase of $24,000,000 is due to provisions for the increase of the salaries of many clerks, and the appointment of many additional ones, it being asserted that the present force in many of the bureaus is inadequate to discharge the business. Nevertheless, and notwithstanding the idea of paying out $126,000,000 for the support of the Navy Department is going to make Congress jump.

CHAMPIONS PICK EMBLEM.

Gold Watch Charm With a Cub Holding Diamond. The Chicago National League club, winners of the world's championship in the recently played series with the Detroit Tigers, have decided on the style of emblem to commemorate the victory. President Murphy has taken a vote of all the men on the team and finds that all of them favor a design similar to the one given them two years ago for winning the championship of Chicago.

That medal was a watch charm, made of solid gold, with a raised surface on one side to represent half of a baseball and on the reverse side a diamond. The design on the surface was a big Y—the Chicago monogram. In the center of the Y is a big diamond, to represent the field of battle, and around the sides are baseball bats, the implements with which victory was won. The Cubs think the medal is the neatest design they have seen, and their idea is to have the same kind made this year, only a little larger, to be attached to the bottom of the other charm by a gold link.

The diamond is a little larger, and instead of the Chicago Y there will be a large cub holding the diamond between his teeth. On the reverse side of the medal will be placed the lettering, giving the name of the holder and date of winning the world's championship. There is no enamel work on the medal and no sharp corners to catch on clothing.

Several Other Speeches.
Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Ellison welcomed the veterans on the part of Governor Swanson, who was unavoidably detained.

Lieutenant-Governor Ellison's tribute to the Confederate soldiers who went home from the war and took up life in the South, and the veterans who brought the white-headed men cheering to their feet.

Admiral Harrington, United States Navy, made the closing address, saying: "When I came to this community four years since, I was captured by the friendly South, and I have since then have put Confederate colors on me and I wear the badge proudly over my navy blue. It signifies the loyalty and devotion of the Confederate soldiers, qualities which have never been equalled in war or in peace. Had I been born in England, I should undoubtedly have joined the Grimes Battery. (Cheers.)"

General Grant's allowing the Confederate soldiers to wear the badge is a noble home with them was a brave man's tribute to a noble foe."

The mention of Grant brought cheers equal to those accorded Roosevelt, the best of the day.

When Lee advised his arms and go home, General Grant," he continued, performed the noblest act of a noble life. (Cheers.) In the last speech he made down in Mississippi, not long before Jeff. Davis died, he advised the people to surrender, and to lay down the building up of this nation of ours. (Cheers.)

The battles of the navy when men in gray and men in blue lay down their lives are remembered here now, and will be remembered hereafter as the glorious deeds of the American people.

After resolutions of thanks, music, cheers and yells, the Grand Camp adjourned in its twentieth annual session in a blaze of glory. W. B. S.

NEW CURRENCY LAW

Congress Will Attempt to Pass One as Result of Panic.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, Munsey Building, Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.

It is certain that a new currency law will be one of the means which will be attempted by Congress as a result of the panic in New York this week. Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, who is in this city to-day, declared that a bill reforming the currency would be introduced at the coming session.

When asked whether the measure would have the support of the President, Mr. Elkins was non-committal. He left the impression that the administration would back the bill, but Elkins did not and would not say that he himself would introduce the bill.

He indicated that the bill would provide for a more elastic currency. The business of the country has increased in volume with far greater rapidity than the money.

The business has increased about 30 per cent. and the money about 5 per cent., he said. "Credit or confidence has been shaken to a certain extent, and the gap is open."

Senator Elkins, who is one of the wealthiest men of America, said he believed the worst of the New York squaw was over. He does not believe the President is to blame for the panic. It would have come later, even

GREATER NORFOLK HAS A GREAT DAY

Her Celebration and That of Veterans' Day Draws Very Large Crowd.

BRILLIANT BALL IS GIVEN

Eclipses Any Similar Social Event in Exposition's Life.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION, October 25.—This was Greater Norfolk Day at the fair, as well as Confederate Veterans' Day, and the two celebrations made it one of the banner days of the exposition. It is estimated that 50,000 people were on the show grounds, a large number of whom were school children of Norfolk. Fine weather favored the visitors.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

Have Big Parade.

The celebration of the day started with a big parade this morning, in which the Confederate veterans joined and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

The formal exercises for Greater Norfolk Day occurred in the Auditorium, the musical selections, instrumental and vocal, by prominent soloists were the most numerous numbers on the program. President Harry St. George Tucker welcomed Greater Norfolk to the exposition. Mayor Riddick responded to President Tucker, and John R. Walker made an address in behalf of the 200,000 League, which was active in working up interest in the day, and Hon. E. W. Gaines spoke in behalf of labor.

Pulling

NOT ONE in ten stops to sufficiently unlace his shoes. Then he tugs and pulls to get them on. Usually only once a day, but that's enough to help in stretching out leather and seams. Unlace your Crossetts—but it's comfortable to know how they will stand even some abuse.

Call on our agent in your city, or write us
LEWIS A.